TORONTO REPORT CARD ON CHILDREN

I am pleased to present the 2004 Toronto Report Card on Children. This 5th annual edition once again provides a window onto the state of Toronto's children, and the services that provide support for our most valuable and vulnerable citizens.

Each year the City releases this report card as a demonstration of our commitment to supporting the children of Toronto, and as a means of providing meaningful public accountability. It also serves as a benchmark for improving the services to our children.

The City remains committed to improving the outcomes for all children in Toronto, regardless of where they live or the income status of their family.

This year's report card is once again the product of a collaborative effort between City departments, Toronto school boards and child welfare agencies. I sincerely all those who have made this report possible through their hard work and expertise.

I encourage you to read this report and to get involved. Join us in working towards the healthy development of all our children.

Councillor Olivia Chow
Toronto Children and Youth Advocate

Acknowledgements

The Report Card Working Group is pleased to submit this final edition of the Toronto Report Card on Children, Volume 5 Update 2003. This report card is the product of a collaborative effort between City staff, representatives of Toronto school boards and child welfare agencies. We hope that it will serve as a helpful tool in tracking the City's progress towards improving the health and well-being of children. ■
