

Memo

Memo, was born an American, has been raised as a Canadian, and has Salvadoran blood flowing in his veins. Memo's poetry is about his views on the world and past experiences. Memo believes when he started performing his poetry, other youth in his community began to recognize that they themselves have been facing the same issues and so have come to connect with his poetry and the positive outlet that poetry can offer them. Besides writing poetry, he has been conducting workshops throughout Toronto both independently and collaboratively with likeminded artists. Memo has performed across Canada, as well as New York City and Los Angeles.
