“Whereas Corporations, such as McDonalds, are increasingly introducing drive-through facilities on their properties, both those that are new and those being refurbished;

And Whereas this type of service encourages car usage while discouraging walking;

And Whereas emissions from idling vehicles waiting for service at drive-through facilities contribute to the degradation of the quality of air in the City;

And Whereas planning policies of the former jurisdictions and the emerging planning policy for the City of Toronto encourage the reduction of car use dependency while promoting alternative means of sustainable transportation such as walking, cycling, and transit use;

The Toronto Cycling Committee recommends that the Planning and Transportation Committee direct staff to investigate the need for a specific By-law that addresses issues related to drive-through facilities in all parts of the City.”
