The Natural Heritage 'System' includes conservation of natural diversity in the environment by identifying ecologically important areas and its biodiversity, and setting priorities for the protection of environmentally sensitive areas. The natural heritage inventory is a comprehensive and dynamic database that tracks the location and status of rare species and natural communities, which includes plants, wildlife, landscape, and water resources. Environmentally sensitive areas provide crucial habitat for native vegetation and wildlife, including rare or endangered species, and may also enhance human health and activities. May include information on conservation priorities, preservation of natural resources and heritage, development densities, and related environmental issues. It is a preventive and early intervention initiative with the goals to identify infants born deaf, hard of hearing or at risk for developing hearing loss, and to provide the child and family with subsequent services needed for communication development. All newborns will be screened at the hospitals or community clinics for any hearing loss. The screening is a two-stage process where different screening technology is employed. Those identified as "high risk" will be referred to an audiologist for further assessment. All babies with a confirmed hearing loss will then be referred to an otolaryngologist and their parents will be provided with necessary support and counselling services. These files are not the official client files but they contain original documentation collected from the hospital chart. Information on each client is entered into the Integrated Public Health Information System (iPHIS). iPHIS is an automated client health record and reporting system that supports public health interventions, tracking, follow-ups, case management and reporting. It includes communicable disease case management and population health surveillance components. Only specific information from the client's worksheets are captured in iPHIS. This documentation is then forwarded to the CDC program that made the original request. The main client file will reside with the CDC program that is the lead for the client case investigations. Documents may include CDLU work record forms, progress notes, correspondence and other relevant information to the investigation.	Toronto Public Health	C + 2	3	C + 5	D
