SUMMARY

The City of Toronto's Security Video Surveillance Policy contains two requirements for the Chief Corporate Officer to report back to City Council regarding video surveillance.

This report provides a confidential attachment listing all security video surveillance equipment installed in the last year as well as acknowledgement that the Chief Corporate Officer has reviewed the Security Video Surveillance Policy and has no further recommendation for update at this time. The confidential attachment must remain confidential as it involves the security of property belonging to the City.

Financial Impact

There are no new financial requirements emanating from this report.

DECISION HISTORY

On July 25, 2006 City Council approved the City of Toronto Security Video Surveillance Policy. This approved policy contains roles and responsibilities for various City staff including the Chief Corporate Officer who has two responsibilities requiring reporting to City Council.

In the first page of the policy, under the heading "Responsibilities of Chief Corporate Officer", two key duties of the Chief Corporate Officer include:

- 1) "Reviewing the Policy every 2 (two) years and forwarding recommendations for update, if any, to City Council for approval"; and,
- 2) "Reporting to the Administration Committee on annual basis on all security video surveillance equipment installed."

COMMENTS

The Policy has been reviewed and no new changes are recommended at this time. It is anticipated that a future report will include recommendations on changes to the retention schedule and the inclusion of the protocol to discuss and provide notice to the Union representatives of the removal or addition of security video surveillance cameras.

Contained in a Confidential Attachment is the list of all security video surveillance equipment installed from January 2007 until August 2008 at all City facilities (excluding Agencies, Boards, and Commissions).
