DECISION HISTORY

The Board of Health appoints individuals annually to Review Panels for the AIDS Prevention and Drug Prevention Community Investment Programs.

ISSUE BACKGROUND

For the past eighteen years, Toronto Public Health has established Review Panels that bring citizen expertise and participation to the allocation of funding for community-based projects for AIDS and Drug Prevention. The Review Panels work with staff to review each application and make funding recommendations to the Board of Health. The Review Panels include City Council members, Board of Health members, informed citizens, and, in the case of AIDS Prevention, people living with HIV and AIDS. In addition, the Medical Officer of Health endeavours to ensure representation from across the City on these Panels.

COMMENTS

The Terms of Reference for the Review Panels for the Community Investment Programs in AIDS Prevention and Drug Prevention are attached (Attachments 1 and 2).

In order to recruit potential members for the 2008 Review Panels a flyer was distributed to agencies across Toronto and posted on the City website. Staff also consulted with Councillors and others to ensure representation from equity seeking groups, as well as representation from diverse neighbourhoods across the City. The names brought forward represent the result of that outreach and consultation, balanced with a need to maintain continuity on the Review Panels. The recommended membership of the AIDS and Drug Prevention Review Panels aims to represent the diversity of the City, and the specialized expertise required for effective decision making.

Individuals recommended for the 2008 AIDS Prevention and Drug Prevention Community Investment Programs Review Panels have all confirmed their interest in participation on the Review Panels.
