Since the Toronto Employment Survey began in 1983, the proportion of jobs which offer part-time hours (less than 30 hours a week) has grown steadily. This is most pronounced in the Retail sector, where total employment has not recovered to the levels of the late 1980s despite strong sectoral growth, indicative of both a jobless recovery and more precarious employment.

Temporary resident permit holders in Toronto rose by 55% in Q2 2016 over the Q2 figure for 2015. This increase was driven by a rise in study permit holders, and may reflect an early arrival of the Q3 peak typical of student permits. Work permit holder totals remained at roughly the same level as a year ago.

Labour Force Participation Data (page 1)

The first four labour force indicators reflect City of Toronto resident figures. The first three are seasonally adjusted by City of Toronto staff from Statistics Canada Labour Force Survey data. Note: Seasonal adjustments will cause slight variation in figures presented over time--data may vary slightly between editions of the dashboard:

Employment Rate (page 1)

The number of people 15 years and older who are employed as a percentage of the total population 15+.

Unemployment Rate (page 1)

The number of people 15 years and older who are not employed as a percentage of the active labour force.

Participation Rate (page 1)

The participation rate measures the number of people 15 years and older who are in the active labour force as a percentage of the total population 15+.

Youth Unemployment Rate (page 2)

The youth unemployment rate measures the unemployment rate for two specifc age cohorts, age 15-19 and age 20-24, as well as both cohorts combined. This Labour Force Survey data has not been seasonally adjusted and is instead reported as a 12-month rolling average. It should not be directly compared with the previous three indicators.

Part-Time Employment Rate (page 2)

The number of part time jobs (jobs where employees work less than 30 hours per week) as a percentage of total jobs, as reported in the City Planning Division's Toronto Employment Survey (TES). The TES is an establishment-based survey, so it typically does not include persons who work at home and most people with no usual place of work. More information available at toronto.ca.demographics.

Permanent Resident Admissions (page 3)

Number of new permanent residents, including economic immigrants, sponsored family immigrants and refugees whose intended destination is the City of Toronto. International Mobility Program Participants & Student Permit Holders (page 3) Defined as where Toronto is the intended destination as specified on the permit or, when the intended destination is not specified for permits signed on or after January 1st, 2012, the last known address of the permit holder is in Toronto as of December 31st of the given year.. More information is available from Immigration, Refugees, and Citizenship Canada. http://www.cic.gc.ca/

Low-Income (After-Tax) Prevalence (page 4)

Percentage of taxfilers and dependents with household income below the Low-Income Measure (After-Tax), defined as 50% of the national median income for households of the same size.

Visits to Food Bank (page 4)

Client visits represents the total number of people served. For example, if a family of three visits a food bank twice in a quarter, it is counted as six client visits in the total for that quarter. Data does not include visits to North York Harvest Food Bank agencies.

Percentage of Population Receiving Social Assistance (page 5)

Social Assistance Caseload (page 5)

Social assistance caseload does not include ODSP.
