Tre Mari Bakery

Tre Mari Bakery

The Deleo family opened their first store under the business name Imperial Grocers back in 1956. In 1960, Tre Mari Bakery was established with the experience and expertise from family members that were professional bakers by trade. From the very beginning, the Deleo family were known for assisting recent immigrants to Canada living in the area.

As a young adolescent, Joseph Deleo began to work in his family business and quickly proved himself by helping bake fresh bread daily, serving customers and delivering groceries to their homes. When not working long hours and learning the bakery trade, he enjoyed playing hockey in the rear public laneway alongside his brothers, cousins and many friends. In 1981, Joseph married AnnaMarie and he helped raise their 4 sons while devoting a significant amount of time to the family business.

The bakery business demands long hours of attention and hard work including weekends and holidays. He was a selfless person that worked hard at everything he did. The discipline he learned was evident in his work habits and his determination is one of the defining features which resulted in Tre Mari becoming such a success. Joseph's entrepreneurial vision, coupled with his excellent customer service and friendly hospitality helped contribute to the success and vitality of our dynamic community, with Tre Mari Bakery becoming the focal point in the neighbourhood along with a destination place for fine Italian products.

Under Joseph's stewardship, Tre Mari Bakery became one of the first businesses to offer a wide range of traditional Italian-Canadian brands which you will still enjoy today along with the staples that older generation of Italians have bought for years such as Amaretti, Zeppoli, Sfoggia cake. All of which resulted in the bakery being recognized as a landmark within the Corso Italia Business Improvement Area. Sadly, unexpectedly and most tragically, Joseph passed away on February 5, 2008 at the young age of 54. Although, this was the most tragic of times for the Deleo Family, it was a rallying point for the anguished family. Joseph's wife and four sons were the catalysts that helped spearhead the revitalization, evolution and gentrification of the bakery.

In order to commemorate Joseph's legacy, we are kindly submitting this petition to request the naming of the laneway to "J Deleo Lane" for his many years of encouraging, motivation and inspiring innovation as a local business operator whose roots were firmly planted in the local community.
