Choosing a Program with your Child

Recreation activities play an important role in your child's life. When children are involved in something they like, they will keep doing it. Programs should be paced according to the needs of your child. Keep in mind not to over-schedule your child in too many activities.

Choose programs that:

- ★ Will provide a positive experience for your child: physically, socially, and emotionally
- ★ will fit into the needs of your family schedule (if they are interested in choosing programs that are very time demanding, help them choose the ones they are most interested in)
- ★ match interests and needs of your child
- ★ your child will find fun and interesting
- ★ offer choice, variety and balance
- ★ encourage personal development
