
Like markets world-wide, the St. Lawrence Market exists to facilitate the sale of basic human needs. Just as weekly market days are an essential feature of life in villages and town squares throughout the world, the St. Lawrence market site has evolved through a long history of such market activity. The proposed new development is part of this evolution and seeks to strengthen and enhance market precinct activities. The strong visual relationship that exists between the North and South market buildings will be both reinforced and revitalized, making the Market Precinct a cohesive and well defined district.

"From the contextual perspective, the market precinct is one of the key defining 'people' places of the City."
