Culture–led regeneration in Toronto’s priority neighbourhoods

Weston- Mt. Dennis pilot study
1. Culture–led regeneration in Toronto’s priority neighbourhoods: Weston-Mt. Dennis pilot study

We propose undertaking a study to develop a culture-led regeneration strategy and action-plan for the Weston-Mt. Dennis neighbourhood and to use this study process as a pilot to inform future strategy development across Toronto’s other priority neighbourhoods.

The study process will create the opportunity to:

- understand what already exists in the Weston & Dennis neighbourhood
- how best to leverage the neighbourhoods unique cultural resources and assets
- identify unrealized potential and opportunities for action in the neighbourhood which serve local priorities
- to build a shared vision for the way in which the arts and culture can deliver on a quadruple bottom line:

  A diverse, dynamic cultural environment
  A richer, inclusive social fabric
  A stronger local economy
  A cleaner, greener environment

This project offers an exceptional opportunity to understand and identify the very real potential of the arts and culture to make a significant contribution to the regeneration of priority neighbourhood communities.

1.1 The Study process in summary

The study process will lead to two overarching outcomes:

An actionable strategy and action-plan to support culture-led regeneration in the Weston-Mt. Dennis neighbourhood focusing on the partnership, services, facilities and programs that meet the needs and aspirations of that neighbourhood’s diverse and underserved communities.

The study process will allow us to identify and map the full range of existing cultural assets and resources in the Weston-Mt. Dennis neighbourhood, including:

- Community cultural groups and organizations
- Arts and cultural organizations
- Physical places and spaces
- Arts and cultural programs and activity
- Services and resources
- Creative and cultural businesses and employment
- Partnerships

The Study will consider how to leverage these existing assets and resources to build new partnerships and new opportunities to support arts and cultural activity, facilities and resources which make a contribution to the social, physical and / or economic regeneration of the neighbourhood and which reflect neighbourhood priorities. This potentially includes some or all of:

- Physical arts and cultural infrastructure
- Arts and cultural education,
- Arts, cultural and creative industries skills, training and employment programs
- Design in the public realm and public art programs
- Virtual infrastructure
- Services and support
- Arts and cultural programming and activities

For the purposes of this study culture will be understood taken to include the full range of performing and visual arts practices, heritage, festivals, events, cultural spaces and facilities, the cultural and creative industries.

1.2 Our Approach

Our process is founded on collaboration, engagement, and consensus building. We will develop and then work closely with both a Steering Group and Local Advisory Group throughout the project and will engage key stakeholders from the beginning of the process in order to build consensus for the project.

Artscape will ensure that its approach to community engagement and communications focuses on expanding the circle of supporters and generating momentum for the project.

Our methodology is focused on:
• Effective, accessible and sensitive communication and engagement with key stakeholders in the community including potential individual users and community based cultural organizations, key organizational partners and potential programming partners.
• Consensus building by identifying and articulating shared values and describing areas of potential consensus.
• Managing expectations through meaningful processes that invite participants to problem-solve with the team, thereby becoming invested in strategies, approaches and solutions.

Artscape will wish to work with the Steering Group and Local Advisory Group to ensure that project communication, consultation and engagement processes are sensitive and accessible and sensitive in terms of language, timing and location.

Artscape is proposing to work with local arts and cultural organizations and other key agencies in the neighbourhood to identify an organization and/or individual to join our study team as Research Assistant and Community engagement Co-coordinator. The study process will benefit from having local, on the ground expertise and contacts from the start and we would hope that the opportunity to work with our team on this project would also offer a capacity building and leadership development opportunity to local organizations.

1.3 Culture-led regeneration

Over the past 20 years or more in Canada, Europe and America the role that arts and culture can play in the social, economic and environmental regeneration of communities has been firmly established and the multiple individual and collective benefits that the arts and culture bring to community revitalization and to the development of socially inclusive, sustainable and healthy communities well documented.

Supporting community well-being and social inclusion

The arts and culture play a significant role in supporting community well-being; in engaging community activism, volunteerism and leadership; in building capacity and resilience. The arts and culture play a central role in celebrating and promoting understanding of and between diverse cultures, histories, traditions and communities. The opportunity to celebrate and share community cultural events and activities is an important tool for bridging social and economic difference through shared cultural engagement. There is a growing body of international policy which addresses the role of the arts in combating social exclusion experienced as a result of aging, poverty or lack of opportunity.

Transforming the lives of individuals

The arts and culture play a transformative role in the lives of individuals, building confidence, skills and social capital and often transforming the life chances of participants. Participation in arts and cultural activity can make a significant impact on educational attainment and learning targets. There is a growing body of research and practice that identifies the role of arts participation and opportunity in supporting at risk youth and intergenerational exchange. Similarly a growing body of practice, policy and research supports the therapeutic benefits the arts can bring to healthcare.

Transforming economies

The arts and culture have a central role to play in the development of economically sustainable and healthy communities. The arts and culture are increasingly understood to have a central role to play in the development of economically sustainable cities and investment in arts and cultural facilities, participation in arts and cultural activities and training and skills development has been employed strategically across the US, Europe and the UK as a key tool in the regeneration of physically declining and socially and economically deprived communities. To succeed in a transforming global economy, creative and knowledge based skills are essential and in Toronto one of the fastest growing employment sectors is the cultural and creative industries.

Transforming places

Arts and cultural facilities, arts and cultural events, celebrations and festivals and the quality of design in the public realm all play a critical role in bringing places back to life, creating vibrant, distinct and authentic places where people want to live, work and play. They contribute to environmental sustainability and are a central piece of the evening economy, bringing life, economic activity and a sense of safety to places once deserted after dark.

1.0 PHASE I: GOVERNANCE AND INITIATION

1.1 Project Governance
To ensure that the project benefits from the advice and engagement of key City-wide and local agencies and individuals with a stake in the role of culture in the revitalization of priority neighbourhoods a two-fold approach to project governance is proposed as follows:

Project Steering Group

The objective of the initial meeting with the Steering Group will be to clarify the project objectives, confirm the study scope, deliverables and timelines. Artscape will present a more detailed draft of the task breakdowns for discussion and refinement.

If not provided already, the Steering Group will supply a project bibliography and digital access to relevant documents and studies. This meeting will also be an opportunity to identify relevant stakeholders to interview (city-wide and local) and Key meeting dates, engagement processes and public consultation initiatives will be confirmed

Local Advisory Group

The objective of the first meeting of the Local Advisory Group will be to introduce the scope and potential of the study and to discuss particular issues, opportunities and challenges in the local community. Key meeting dates, engagement processes and public consultation initiatives and the likely scope of invitations to public consultations and to user group discussions will be confirmed.

This will be an important opportunity for the Advisory group to identify key individuals and organizations in the community to be interviewed or otherwise engaged in the process.

3.1 Prepare & Facilitate Local Focus Groups

Artscape will prepare and facilitate up to five focus groups of up to 20 individuals each to identify key issues, opportunities and priorities for culture to support regeneration objectives in the neighbourhood. Invitations to join focus groups will seek to ensure a balance between service providers and users and between local not for profit, local business and public sector agencies and their stakeholders.

Engaging Local Arts and Cultural Groups in Visioning Event
We will aim to work with local arts and cultural organizations in the neighbourhood to develop and deliver an engaging, arts infused and relevant event which stimulates positive discussion; focuses on opportunities and contributes towards a long term vision for culture-led regeneration in the neighbourhood.

Commissioning Contributions to Visioning Event
Subject to confirmation of available budget we would like to be able to offer up to 3 small commissions to local arts and cultural organizations to enable them to prepare for and attend the event. This might include for example commissioning a video, music or dance piece specifically to contribute to the visioning event.

A written summary of the outcomes of the workshop will be provided to the Steering Group.
