DECISION HISTORY

Toronto City Council established five awards to recognize individuals or organizations who have made significant contributions on access, equity and human rights issues. Nomination forms are available in December of each year. Recipients are considered from nominations submitted by the public and selected by a panel comprised of community individuals with expertise and knowledge of the issues relevant to the areas covered by the awards. Recipients of the Constance E. Hamilton Award are selected by the Women Members of Council.

The recipients of the Awards are recognized at a ceremony commemorating Human Rights Day.

ISSUE BACKGROUND

1. The City of Toronto Aboriginal Affairs Award

Established in 2003, the Aboriginal Affairs Award is presented annually to a person or persons or organization whose volunteer efforts have made a significant contribution towards improving the quality of life for the Aboriginal community in Toronto. Examples of contributions include services or advocacy work on issues such as health, shelter or street work, governance and self-determination, employment, economic development, human rights or cultural activities.

2. The City of Toronto Access Award for Disability Issues

The Access Award for Disability Issues was established during 1981 as part of the celebrations for the International Year for the Disabled. The Access Award is presented annually to a person or persons who have made a significant contribution towards improving the lives of people with disabilities by integrating them into all aspects of society.

Access can include the design of a new or renovated structure, program or service that contributes significantly towards the independent living of people with disabilities. Public acknowledgement of the work of the recipients serves to encourage others to help create an environment of inclusion.

3. Pride Award for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Transsexual and Two Spirited Issues

The Pride Award for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Transsexual and Two Spirited Issues was established in 2003 to mark the thirtieth anniversary of Toronto City Council's decision to adopt a human rights policy to provide protection on the basis of sexual orientation. The Award honours individuals and/or organizations who have made or are making a significant or ongoing contribution to the well-being and advancement of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, transsexual and two spirited community in Toronto.

4. William P. Hubbard Award for Race Relations

The William P. Hubbard Race Relations Award was established in 1987 and is named after the first person of African heritage to serve as a Toronto City Councillor. William P. Hubbard entered politics in 1894 and served for a total of 15 years. He was Acting Mayor in 1906 and 1907. He was an advocate of public ownership of the hydroelectric system and during his political career worked towards the founding of Ontario Hydro.

The William P. Hubbard Race Relations Award celebrates the achievements of Toronto residents who work, often without recognition, to foster a positive race relations environment. Their dedication and commitment has improved the quality of life for all in the City. The public acknowledgement of the work of the recipients serves to encourage others to become actively involved in the elimination of racism and prejudice.

5. The Constance E. Hamilton Award on the Status of Women

The Constance E. Hamilton Award was established in 1979 to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Person's Case, which recognized that women were "persons" and could be appointed to the Senate of Canada. The Award was named after Constance E. Hamilton who in 1920 was the first woman elected to a municipal council in Toronto.

The Award recognizes person(s) who have made a significant contribution to improving the social, economic, cultural and political status of women in Toronto and whose efforts have received limited public attention. Recognition of the work of the recipients serves to encourage others in their efforts to achieve equality and to remove barriers.

COMMENTS

The nominating panel has selected recipients of the Access, Equity and Human Rights Awards from nominations submitted by the public. The members of the nominating panel were: Melissa Simas, ERDCO (Ethno-Racial People with Disabilities Coalition of Ontario); Andre Morriveau, Chiefs of Ontario; Frances Sanderson, Nishnawbe Homes; Avvy Go, Metro Toronto Chinese and Southeast Asian Legal Clinic; and Jane Farrow, Jane Jacobs Walk. Staff support is provided by the Office of Equity, Diversity and Human Rights, City Manager's Office.

Aboriginal Affairs Award:

Rob Lackie – to recognize his representation of Aboriginal Peoples' interests through his active participation in Aboriginal communities, developing partnership and cooperation that are broad-based and cut across political divides and making a difference on Aboriginal youth by offering them the tools and skills needed as future leaders.

Access Award:

Ruth Stackhouse – to recognize her outstanding ability and far-reaching achievements in tackling difficult issues and changing the lives of psychiatric consumer/survivors, persons with disabilities and abused women and the world around them through theatre, art, and finding their own voice.

Pride Award:

David Kelley LGBTQ & HIV/Aids Counselling Services, Family Service Toronto – to recognize the impact of this counseling service and centre of training that contributes to improving the quality of life for the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and queer communities in Toronto through high quality, professional counseling and pioneering innovative programs.

William P. Hubbard Award:

Leonard A. Braithwaite – to recognize his distinguished achievements in the profession of law, community service and at the Etobicoke Council (1962 – 1964), provincial legislature being the first Black person elected to the provincial riding of Etobicoke created in 1963, and Toronto Council (1982-1988), thereby fostering better understanding of diverse communities and opening doors of opportunity for young people from diverse backgrounds.

Constance E. Hamilton Award

The Women Members of Council will report separately on the results of their selection.

Conclusion

The City of Toronto's Access, Equity and Human Rights Awards program gives recognition to the efforts being made to create an inclusive, barrier free city where human rights are respected and diversity is recognized as a strength.
