COMMENTS

The subject property is rectangular in shape and has existed in its current form since the 1950s on the northwest corner of Bannockburn Avenue and Clyde Avenue. The subject lands are designated Neighbourhoods in the Toronto Official Plan. Neighbourhoods are considered to be stable areas, however the Official Plan recognizes that Neighbourhoods are not static, meaning there will be change in these areas. It is expected that some physical change will occur in the form of enhancements, additions and infill housing. Development within Neighbourhoods will respect and reinforce the existing physical character of buildings, lot sizes, streetscapes and open space patterns in these areas.

Policy 4.1.5 outlines the criteria for development within Neighbourhoods. Development will respect and reinforce the existing physical character of the neighbourhood, with particular regard to:

- b) size and configuration of lots;
- c) heights, massing, scale and dwelling type of nearby residential properties;
- d) prevailing building type(s);
- e) prevailing patterns of rear and side yard setbacks and landscaped open space;

The Plan goes on to assert that no changes will be made through rezoning, minor variance, consent or other public action that are out of keeping with the physical character of the neighbourhood.
The subject property is zoned R6 in the North York Zoning By-law 7625, as amended. The intent of the Zoning By-law is to establish precise standards as to how land is developed. Restrictions on lot frontage and area, lot coverage, side yard setbacks, number of storeys and finished first floor elevation are used, in part, to achieve more uniform and consistent built form streetscapes, thereby contributing to a more predictable pattern of development.

There have been recent OMB approvals for similar lot severances at 106 and 177 & 179 Dunblaine Avenue, 265 Haddington Avenue and older severance approvals resulting in the similarly-sized lots at 92 & 94 Dunblaine Avenue, and 392, 400 and 402 Brooke Avenue Avenue, all of which are located within a few streets of the subject property. There are also several lots of similar size that were part of the original plans of subdivision.

Planning staff have had discussions with the applicant outlining our concerns with the proposed east elevation of the easternmost dwelling, specifically with regard to the height of the front door and the size and orientation of the stairway leading to the front door. Since all new detached dwellings on lots created by consent are subject to Site Plan approval, staff are of the opinion that these design issues can be resolved through that process, should the Committee approve these applications.

Respectfully submitted,
