In 2013, the City earned $188,500 in telecommunications licence agreement revenues from wireless communications carriers.

The Agreement provides consent for collocation of other Wireless Carriers on the Licence Premises. Rogers Wireless will be required to pay fifty percent of the base Licence Fee for pole and tower structures and 100 percent of the base for roof top installations

Currently, the revenue generated from the Rogers sites as listed in Appendix 'A' amounts to $131,200 per year. When applying the proposed schedule of Licence Fees, the total estimated revenue to the City of Toronto is approximately $2.3 million over the ten (10) years term or $230,000 per year.
