Hello,

As a small business owner with two locations in Toronto, I have some serious reservations about allowing/expanding food truck vending.

I am concerned about the effect on my business and others in both the communities I operate in (Yorkville & West Queen West).

I pay a combined $11,000 in rent, property taxes and building insurance to my landlords each month. A food truck does not have these overhead expenses which gives them an advantage.

I do not want food truck vending, of any kind anywhere near established businesses.

Thank you.
