SUMMARY

This report recommends that City Council include the property at 349 George Street on the City of Toronto's Heritage Register and state its intention to designate the property under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act. The site contains the former Allan School (1910), which is most recently known as the School House Shelter operated by Dixon Hall and located beside the Seaton House men's shelter.

The municipally owned property at 349 George Street is located on the section of the street between Dundas Street East and Gerrard Street East that is the subject of the George Street Revitalization, a City-led project to replace Seaton House with a new men's shelter, a long-term care facility, units for both assisted living and affordable housing, as well as a community service hub.

The inclusion of the property at 349 George Street on the City's Heritage Register and its designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act would identify all of the cultural heritage values and attributes of the property and ensure that they are preserved as part of the plans for the George Street Revitalization.

ISSUE BACKGROUND

The municipally owned property at 349 George Street is not listed on the City of Toronto's Heritage Register. It has been identified as having heritage potential in the background information for the George Street Revitalization report adopted by City Council on November 3, 2015, and is included in the proposed Garden District Heritage Conservation District, which is currently being studied for designation under Part V of the Ontario Heritage Act. As the revitalization project is proceeding now, it is appropriate to proceed with Part IV designation to ensure that all of the property's cultural heritage values and attributes are identified and preserved as part of the George Street Revitalization project.

COMMENTS

A location map and photographs are attached as Attachments Nos. 1 and 2.

Staff have completed the attached Heritage Property Research and Evaluation Report (Attachment No. 4) for 349 George Street and determined that the property meets Ontario Regulation 9/06, the criteria prescribed for municipal designation under Part IV, Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act that the City also uses when assessing properties for inclusion on the City of Toronto's Heritage Register (formerly known as the Inventory of Heritage Properties). Located on the southeast corner of George Street and Glenholme Place, the Allan School (1910) is an early 20th century school building commissioned by the Toronto Board of Education and designed under the direction of the Superintendent of Buildings, C. H. Bishop for the education of students from the adjoining Boys' Home. The Allan School features a unique design that complemented the Boys' Home (1864-1958) while incorporating standard elements identified with public schools in Toronto in the 19th and early 20th centuries. It is associated historically with the Boys' Home, an institution of significance in 19th century Toronto, as well as the Garden District neighbourhood as it developed around Allan Gardens. Contextually, the Allan School supports the character of the Garden District as a residential community interspersed with institutional buildings, and is linked to its setting on George Street where it stands as a local landmark.

The Statement of Significance (Attachment No. 3) for the property at 349 George Street comprises the Reasons for Designation, which is the Public Notice of Intention to Designate and will be advertised on the City of Toronto's web site in accordance with the City of Toronto Act provisions and served on the Ontario Heritage Trust according to the provisions of the Ontario Heritage Act. The City's Non Profit Housing Corporation and the Shelter, Support and Housing Administration have been notified as the City Divisions responsible for the management of this municipally owned property.
