RE: REImagining Yonge

I am delighted with this project and sincerely hope that it will be built soon. This is a rare project that is people friendly.

There has been so much development along this stretch of Yonge St, bringing so many new people. A criteria was to encourage pedestrian and bike travel. However, this requires space for sidewalks and bike lanes. If not this design, how do you intend to fill this need?

A significant portion of the existing traffic is just going through to the 401 or beyond. Any road would do.

A "High Street" cannot be put anywhere. It needs to be close to the people. That location is already chosen.

It is a shame that this was not incorporated in the North York Secondary Plan, but better late than never.

Thank you for your consideration,

Anne Brooke
