DECISION HISTORY

COMMENTS

The site upon which the existing building is located is not subject to any rezoning applications or site plan approval applications.

On May 10, 2019, an application was submitted by Bay Elm 650 Inc., to demolish the existing mixed use building at 61 Elm Street. This is a row/townhouse comprised of a residential use (related application No.19-152576 DEM). There is a total of 1 (one) dwelling unit within the residential building at 61 Elm Street.

At the date of this report being prepared, a replacement building permit has not been submitted to Toronto Building. Given that the building contains a residential use, demolition application (61 Elm Street) has been referred to the Toronto and East York Community Council. In such cases, the Municipal Code requires the Community Council to approve or refuse the demolition permit.

In support of the application for demolition, the owner advises that they are seeking to secure approval at this time to mitigate the risk of the vacant buildings being vandalized to limit the potential of vagrancy and potential crime.

The application for demolition has been circulated for comment to Urban Forestry - Tree Protection and Protection Review, the Ward Councillor and Heritage Preservation Services (HPS).

The application for demolition is being referred to the Toronto and East York Community Council because the site contains a residential unit in the building that is proposed to be demolished and the owner has not obtained a permit to replace the building on the site at this time.

In accordance with Section 2 of the City of Toronto Act, 1991 (No.4), C.Pr24, S.O.1991, Toronto and East York Community Council may impose any reasonable conditions which have regard to the nature of the residential properties, including the preservation of significant natural features and requiring the erection and maintenance of structures and enclosures.
