Purpose

Share information about the preliminary report for consideration at the November 9 City Council meeting about developing a cultural districts program

Seek your advice

and guidance on a potential cultural district program that advances broader understanding of Indigenous history and self-determination, through local place-keeping and place-making methodologies

The City of Toronto acknowledges that we are on the traditional territory of many nations including the Mississaugas of the Credit, the Anishnabeg, the Chippewa, the Haudenosaunee and the Wendat peoples and is now home to many diverse First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples. The City also acknowledges that Toronto is covered by Treaty 13 signed with the Mississaugas of the Credit, and the Williams Treaties signed with multiple Mississaugas and Chippewa bands.

The City of Toronto acknowledges all Treaty peoples – including those who came here as settlers – as migrants either in this generation or in generations past – and those of us who came here involuntarily, particularly those brought to these lands as a result of the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade and Slavery. We pay tribute to those ancestors of African origin and descent.

Important Considerations

Work is in early stages to respond to existing Council directions we will go through during this presentation, and we use the term “cultural district designation” as a placeholder.

The goal is to develop a program that reflects the unique context of Toronto.

We recognize that the entirety of Toronto is Indigenous.

Through this presentation, EDC aims to hear strategic advice, guidance and recommendations – these will help inform next steps of this work to ensure that it is meaningful for communities.

Policy Gap and Opportunity

Identified common themes that call for a coordinated policy approach

Need to protect the area from displacement and cultural erasure through community ownership

Avoid the loss of character, identity and roots – and ensure safe spaces that promote sense of belonging

Celebrate communities, and encourage new cultural employment hubs

Celebrate the rich history of neighbourhoods beyond built forms

Research / Jurisdictional Review – how have other cities responded to similar issues and challenges in a coordinated way?

Early Engagement – what needs to be considered for a coordinated approach to be meaningful for communities in Toronto?

Preliminary Research - Findings

- There are many “Cultural District” programs across the world. In the United States, there are over 343 formalized ones.
- Some cities are proactive in embedding Indigenous history and programming.

Founded on March 31st, 2020, the American Indian Cultural District (AICD) is the first established Cultural District of its size in the United States dedicated to recognizing, honoring, and celebrating the American Indian legacy, culture, people, and contributions.

AICD Activities include:

Native Visibility Project
Indigenize SF Project
Land Acknowledgment of the Ramaytush Ohlone people

Early Engagement - Findings

Met with 60 partners, stakeholders, community members. What we heard (among other important points):

It is important to recognize the history in pushing oppressed communities into spaces that were not ideal, and also acknowledge the history that led to geographic areas being meaningful for communities: safety, sense of identity, sense of community.

ensure that government support for communities is not bounded by the district – specific geographic areas may be meaningful and serve as community anchors, but do not and should not concentrate all of a community’s businesses and cultural spaces.

acknowledge and target root causes of displacement and gentrification, such as affordability and community ownership, and ensure that the combination of policy tools is inclusive and that an intersectional lens is applied at all times.

consider the “designation” or “program” a place-making methodology for communities to lead and advance their own priorities, and ensure that it is not fully focused on the past, also enabling possibilities for the future – and supporting new communities hubs and creative scenes in the city.

Strategic Approach

Proposed approach

A Cultural District Program - a combination of tools to protect small business, cultural spaces and heritage within areas meaningful to communities and Toronto - may address this policy gap

Addresses common themes

Enhances effective use of resources

Supported by best practices and research findings

Informed by early engagement and future meetings

Next Steps

Advice and Recommendations

1

How could the notion of a cultural district be modified to support Indigenous self-determination and Indigenous place-making?

2

What do you see as important steps for us to take in Phase 2/Public Engagement to work with Indigenous communities and ensure that a cultural districts program:

- a. reflects communities' priorities and
- b. is aligned with the upcoming City of Toronto Reconciliation Action Plan?

Thank you
