Progress

Toronto Urban Health Fund Indigenous Approach was developed.

2018

Economic Development and Culture Developed an Indigenous Funding Stream.

2019

City of Toronto Pandemic Relief Funding to Indigenous organizations is unprecedented.

2020

Opportunity

1. To continue to put action to words; recognizing there is a history of inequity of funding for Indigenous initiatives and organizations in Toronto.
2. To work in partnership and collaboration with key Indigenous stakeholders to create an Indigenous Funding Framework that supports a trajectory of not only equal access across eligible Indigenous-led Organizations, greater self-determination and increased funding investments to Indigenous initiatives with a plan to grow the funding allocations over time.

Next Steps

1. To review historic and current funding allocations to identify funding gaps and opportunities for stronger relationships with Indigenous organizations
2. To survey funded organizations to learn about the unique nature of their hopes for a new funding relationship
3. To continue the working group discussions to map and plan for broader stakeholder engagement
4. To finalize a model born of collective input for 2022
