COMMENTS

The Province of Ontario has introduced legislative changes to the Planning Act which require the City to review and update three of its growth-related funding tools, including the Alternative Parkland Dedication Rate.

Late in the process of developing and consulting on the updated alternative parkland dedication framework, the Province introduced legislation, Bill 109, More Homes for Everyone Act, which made further changes to the parkland dedication legislative framework in the Planning Act.

At its meeting on July 12, 2022, Executive Committee will consider a report related to the Alternative Parkland Dedication Rate. The report recommends the interim re-enactment of the City's current alternative parkland dedication by-law in 2022 in anticipation of further analysis and consultation and presentation of a new parkland dedication framework in the second quarter of 2023. In accordance with provincial legislation, the City must adopt a parkland dedication by-law before September 18, 2022, to be able to apply an alternative parkland dedication rate.

This supplementary report recommends a modified Official Plan Amendment (OPA) to ensure a scoped re-enactment of the current alternative parkland dedication policy framework. The draft OPA in Attachment 1 to this report includes one new policy to implement the parkland dedication requirements for lands designated transit-oriented communities pursuant to the Transit-Oriented Communities Act, an addition required to reflect Bill 109's changes to the Planning Act. The remainder of Official Plan policy related to alternative parkland dedication will be unchanged at this stage.

A parkland dedication approach that more directly links growth with parkland provision, linking people with parks, is needed. Subsequent to City Council's consideration of these reports, staff will undertake further analysis and consultation and will present a recommended new parkland dedication framework in 2023.
