

You never get a second chance to make a first impression. The narrow minded rely on hyperbole to support their credibility.

These recommendations to the Executive Committee and City Council submitted by Lead-Hand on the Dundas Fiasco, now disguised as 'Recognition Review' are sent with the hope that no one will notice that it is a Charter Rights violation.

On page 7 of item 8.5.1 found at the above link reveals the damning proof of such violations that will bring Toronto and any Council Member who supports such abuse into a state of disrepute and guilty of 'conduct unbecoming.'

The Mayor of Toronto has frequently talked proudly of our city's values. What value do Council Members impose on its' citizens when it denies them one of the few rights they have?

The three million residents of Toronto can be denied their right to object to the renaming of their street and the imposition of having to renew their driver's license, health cards, visas, passports and much more at their cost and labour on the whim of a distracted few members of Council with an ideological agenda that serves their personal and biased opinions with callous disregard for the consequences.

City Staff do a great deal of work for Council Members but they are not saints. Their work is not sacrosanct. When they make recommendations that will visit foreseeable harm with a full knowledge that the end result will do such harm and yet they continue any support from the elected Council Members will be seen as an act of complicity.

How many present Members of Council will soon stand before our citizens and lie to them when they say they always act in the best interest of Torontonians?

My city right or wrong, when right to be kept right, when wrong to be put right. There are times when City Staff must be told they have gotten it wrong. This 'Dundas Fiasco' is a mess that should never have happened. The Mayor and the rest of Council had "Henry Dundas, the Missing Pieces" and allowed the Lead-Hand in this abuse to hide it from all Toronto citizens with the exception of 25 equity-deserving activists. Toronto has four cultures not one. J De Marco 11 July, 2022.
