To whom it may concern

I recently learned I donated above the total contribution limit in the 2022 Toronto election.

Through the websites of the various candidates, I was aware of a maximum contribution limit per candidate, but I was not aware there was also a limit on the total contribution allowed. While ignorance is not a legal defense, this was wholeheartedly an accident on my part.

I have had very little communication with the candidates, and I have no potential conflicts of interest or business interests with the city of Toronto or the candidates.

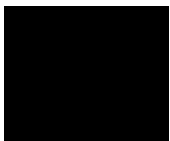

This is the first time I have donated a significant amount of money, and my aim was simply to support candidates who I thought would improve the city with evidence-based policies.

I hope the commission shows leniency as this was an honest error with no ill intent, and I promise I will never make this mistake again.

I am happy to make myself available for the Committee and answer any questions they may have.

Thank you.

Regards.
