RE: Letter of Support – Development Proposal at 333 College Street

Dear Members of Toronto City Council,

I am writing to express my support for the proposed development project located at 333 College Street, situated at the edge of the Kensington Market neighbourhood. This initiative represents an important and timely opportunity to bring renewed vibrancy, economic activity, and public safety improvements to an area that has been facing increasing social and commercial challenges.

As a long-standing member of the local community, I have witnessed firsthand the strain placed on businesses and residents due to persistent issues related to substance abuse and inadequate support infrastructure in the surrounding area. These conditions have had a noticeably detrimental impact on local commerce, pedestrian traffic, and the overall quality of life for residents and visitors alike.

The proposed development at 333 College Street has the potential to transform the difficulties experienced merchants and services at a key entry point to Kensington Market. This project could help re-energize the local economy, improve street-level activity, and foster a safer and more welcoming environment. By bringing a more consistent and engaged presence to this stretch of College Street, the development can also act as a natural deterrent to the behaviours that have led to safety concerns and commercial decline in recent years.

I believe this project aligns with the City of Toronto's broader goals of creating livable, vibrant, and inclusive urban spaces. It offers a meaningful step toward balancing the area's historic character with a much-needed injection of renewal and forward-looking development.

I write this letter in support of this application, recognizing the significant benefits it can bring to the Kensington Market area and the broader downtown community.

Thank you for your attention and continued commitment to the health and growth of our city.

Sincerely,

Dr Karen Hack, RP, ND (Inactive)
