

2.2 HISTORIC PHOTOGRAPHS

Fig. 2.4. 1980s photo from the southeast corner of Liberty and Mowat Streets, former S. F. Bowser & Co addition building (currently 39 Mowat St). Exact date unknown.

Source: City of Toronto Archives, Series 1465, File 51, Item 19.

Fig. 2.2. C. 1972 photo from Liberty Street looking east from Mowat Street, towards 39 Mowat (foreground) and the Site (former S. F. Bowser & Co, background).

Source: City of Toronto Archives, Series 1465, File 731, Item 22.

Fig. 2.3. 1980s photo looking east on Liberty Street from Fraser, towards the Gillett Company Factory Complex. Exact date unknown.

Source: City of Toronto Archives, Series 1465, File 37, Item 28.

Fig. 2.1. July 24, 1983, photo taken from atop 53 Fraser Avenue, showing the former Arlington Co (54-66 Fraser Ave).

Source: Flickr, Patrick Cummins.

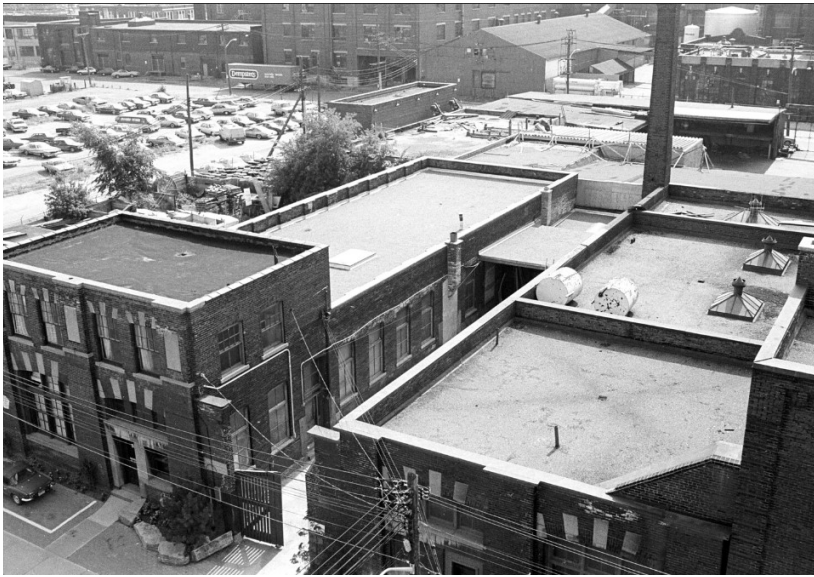

Fig. 2.2. July 24, 1983, photo taken from atop 53 Fraser Avenue, showing the former Arlington Co's courtyard and the gate which has since been removed (58-66 Fraser Ave).

Source: Flickr, Patrick Cummins.

Fig. 2.3. July 24, 1983, photo taken from atop 53 Fraser Avenue, showing the former F. S. Bowser & Co partial east elevation (147 Liberty St/ 68 Fraser Ave). Toronto Carpet Factory in the background.

Source: Flickr, Patrick Cummins.

2.3 VISUAL RESOURCES

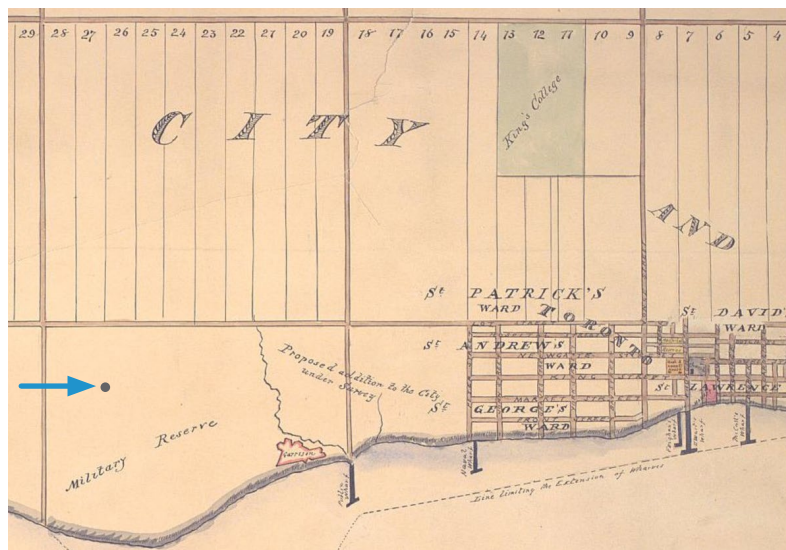

Fig. 2.4. 1834 Chewett map showing the newly incorporated City of Toronto and Military Reserve to the west of city limits. Approximate location of the Site with blue arrow.

Source: Toronto Public Library Digital Archives, Annotated by Giaimo.

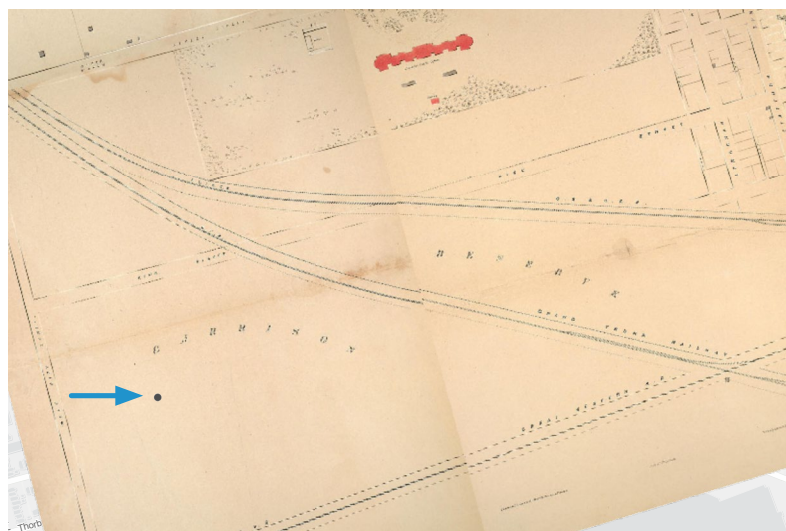

Fig. 2.5. 1858 Goad's Fire Insurance Plan showing The Provincial Lunatic Asylum constructed in 1850 to the northeast of the Site. Approximate location of the Site with blue arrow.

Source: City of Toronto Maps, Annotated by Giaimo.

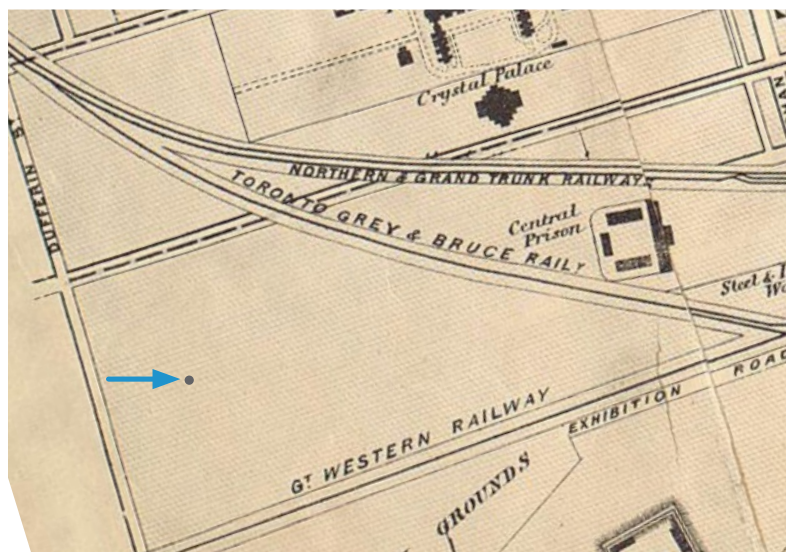

Fig. 2.6. 1878 Map of Toronto showing the Central Prison to the east of the approximate location of the Site (indicated with blue arrow) and the Exhibition Grounds south of the Western Railway on the former Garrison Reserve lands.

Source: Library and Archives Canada, Annotated by Giaimo.

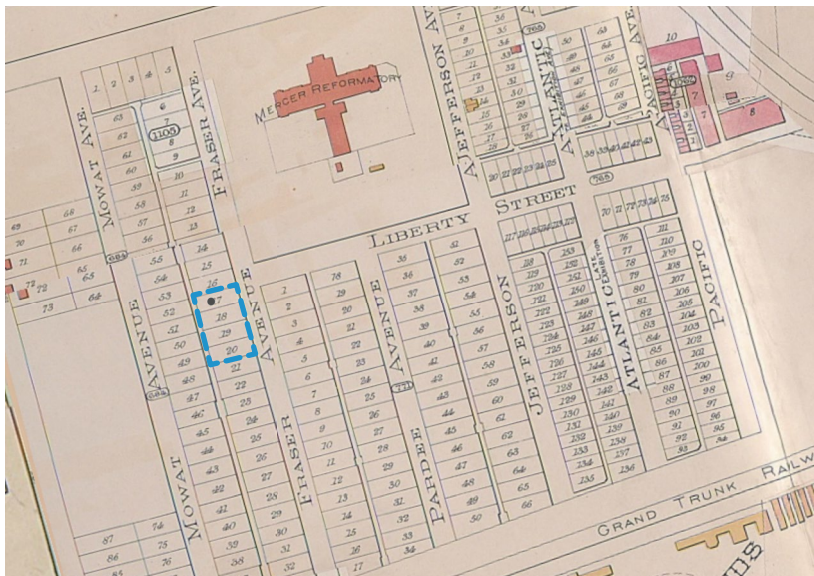

Fig. 2.1. 1889 Goad's Fire Insurance Plan showing Mercer Reformatory for Women, opened in 1880, and the subdivision of the lands north of Grand Trunk Railway. Approximate area of the Site shown in blue.

Source: City of Toronto Maps, Annotated by Gaiimo.

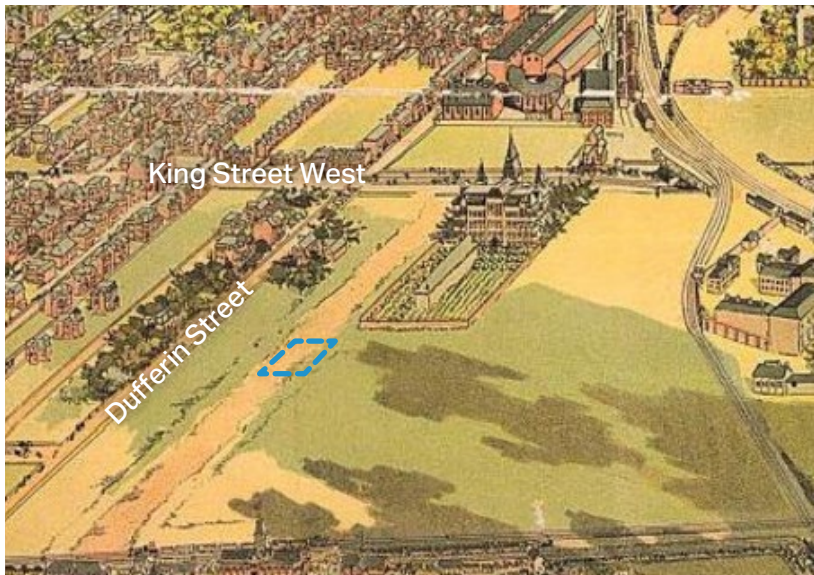

Fig. 2.2. 1893 Barclay, Clark & Co. Bird's Eye View Chromolithograph showing the context prior to the development of the Site (approximate area in blue).

Source: Toronto Public Library Digital Archive, Annotated by Gaiimo.

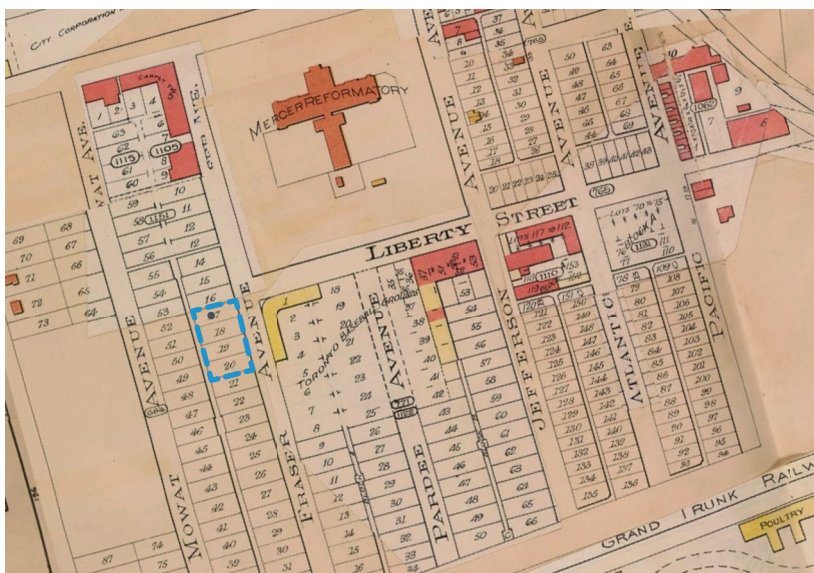

Fig. 2.3. 1903 Goad's Fire Insurance Plan showing the approximate area of the Site in blue and Toronto Baseball Grounds (later occupied by the Gillett Company Factory Complex) to the east of it.

Source: City of Toronto Maps, Annotated by Gaiimo.