SCHEDULE 'B'

Reasons for the designation of the former Gooderham Building at Nos.
49-51 Wellington Street East.

The Gooderham Building built in 1891-92 to the design of David Roberts is designated to be of architectural value as being a notable example of a building by an important Toronto architect working in a combination of the modern Gothic Revival and the Romanesque Revival styles. The building is perhaps more important in streetscape terms for the landmark quality of the corner tower set at the apex of the gore site. The tower was specifically planned as an architectural feature but functioned even more as a symbol of the wealth and position of the Gooderham family in the Toronto economy.
