INTRODUCTION

Toronto City Council adopted Housing Opportunities Toronto, An Affordable Housing Action Plan 2010-2020 (HOT) in 2009 and it came into effect in 2010.

HOT addresses the City’s affordable housing priorities, including moving vulnerable people from streets and shelters into stable homes, assisting people to stay in their homes, improving private apartments and social housing, building 1,000 affordable rental homes annually, and making home ownership more affordable.

HOT is aligned with a number of City and provincial priorities including:

• Poverty reduction
• Job training and creation
• Housing for Aboriginal people, seniors and people with disabilities, and
• Supporting victims of domestic violence

During its first five years, HOT has been a reliable road map guiding the City’s housing investments, as well as public and private sector activity. Now at the mid-point, HOT is undergoing a review.

The review will update what was approved in 2009 to better reflect current realities and future challenges and opportunities. It will also focus on how the City can work together with all of its housing partners through to 2020 to better achieve the outcomes set out in HOT.

Public consultations have been completed and internal consultations with various City Divisions will take place. A number of other initiatives, such as the City’s Open Door Program, the federal government’s anticipated National Housing Strategy, the province’s proposed inclusionary zoning legislation and new federal and provincial housing investments announced in their 2016 budgets will all have an impact on the HOT review.

In the meantime, the City is pleased to provide this 2015 Annual Progress Report based on the eight key themes used to organize the 67 recommended actions in the HOT Plan:

1. Creating housing opportunities in all neighbourhoods
2. Help homeless and vulnerable people find and keep homes
3. Assist families and individuals to afford rents
4. Preserve and repair rental housing
5. Revitalize neighbourhoods
6. Create new affordable rental homes
7. Help people buy and stay in their homes and;
8. Working together

2015 Highlights

In 2015, the City continued its implementation of the 2014-2019 Housing Stability Service Plan, which guides the planning, management and delivery of housing and homelessness services over five years. An important tool to help achieve HOT goals, the objective is to transform Toronto’s housing and homelessness service system into a client-centred, outcome-driven service system that is focused on preventative approaches aimed at improving the housing stability of Torontonians.

i) Housing First Pilot for Long-Term Shelter Users
The Hostels to Homes pilot program is now in operation as a partnership between City staff and community agencies, with a target to house 200 long-term shelter users over 12 months. A new service model based on a Housing First approach has been developed, along with staff training and client eligibility and assessment processes. The objective is that people will be assisted to move to more appropriate permanent housing with supports, and those shelter beds will then be available for emergency use for people in short-term housing crises.

ii) 24-Hour Women’s Drop-in Services
Two new low-barrier 24-Hour Women’s Drop-in Services have opened and are providing a safe and welcoming space to vulnerable women who may not otherwise be accessing services. The service approach is intended to build trust and ultimately connect women with the services they need to achieve positive outcomes, such as finding and maintaining safe housing, improved health and safety, and decreased social isolation. A program evaluation is underway in 2016 to measure program outcomes.

iii) 24-Hour Cold Weather Drop-in Services
Two new 24-hour cold weather drop-in services provide low-barrier services from November 15 to April 15 when Extreme Cold Weather Alerts (ECWA) are called. The service was provided continuously in January and February and remained alert-based the remainder of the cold weather season. Cold weather drop-in services provide accessible, pet-friendly supports when cold weather conditions increase the vulnerability of people experiencing homelessness.

iv) LGBTQ2S Youth Shelter/Transition to Housing Programs
Funding was approved in 2015 for two new LGBTQ2S transition to housing shelters and one location is now in operation with the other planned to open in 2017. These new services were developed to respond to the specific needs of LGBTQ2S youth, who are over-represented in the emergency shelter system and who report facing additional barriers in accessing the existing shelter system.
v) Toronto Shelter Standards
Updated Toronto Shelter Standards were approved by City Council in September 2015 after extensive consultation with community service providers. The Shelter Standards set clear guidelines and expectations for the provision of shelter services and reflect the City’s commitment to delivering high quality service that is client-centred and outcome focused. The next phase of work will focus on providing support to ensure shelter providers can successfully implement the new Standards, along with development of Quality Assurance processes.

vi) Aboriginal Tenant Support Programs
As part of Toronto’s Poverty Reduction Strategy initiatives, two Aboriginal agencies are testing new models of providing tenant support, housing support and eviction prevention services for Aboriginal People. Reports on successful program models, tools and resources will be delivered in 2016.

vii) Covenant House Transitional Housing for Victims of Human Trafficking
Council approved funds to complete repairs and renovations to a Toronto Community Housing property to provide transitional housing for young women who are victims of sexual exploitation and human trafficking. This initiative activates the City’s strategy to combat human trafficking and will open in 2016.
2016 Actions

i) George Street Revitalization Project
   The George Street Revitalization project will redevelop Seaton House, the City’s largest homeless shelter, into an innovative facility with a dynamic range of services to meet the unique and complex needs of homeless, vulnerable and elderly individuals in our community. The redevelopment will include an emergency shelter, long-term care home, transitional living service, affordable housing, and a community services hub. In 2015, City Council approved the George Street Revitalization Recommended Scope and Approach report. In 2016, work continues with analysis of project procurement options and implementation of the transition plan.

ii) New Seniors Shelter program
   A new emergency shelter program model to respond to the needs of seniors and older adults who are homeless is being developed, based on identified best practices and consultations with service users and community stakeholders. The focus of the program, to be implemented as part of the development of a new 110 bed shelter in Scarborough, will be on assisting homeless seniors to move into housing with appropriate supports as quickly as possible.

iii) New Interim Shelter Funding Model
   A proposed new interim funding model will be developed for shelters that starts to shift the funding focus away from compensating shelter providers for occupied shelter beds. This is the first step towards development of a funding model that is predictable and performance based with a continued focus on moving shelter users into appropriate housing as quickly as possible.

iv) Aligning health supports and housing allowances
   The City of Toronto and the five Greater Toronto Area (GTA) Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs) have established a Resilient Tenancy and Services Work Group to build opportunities for the City and LHINs to work together to align housing allowances with health support services. A Request for Information (RFI) was issued seeking written submissions to identify innovative options for new or existing community based projects or initiatives aimed at meeting the needs of vulnerable people who require both City housing allowances and LHIN-funded support services to achieve successful tenancies and improved health outcomes.

In the first phase of this Housing Access Revitalization process, Housing Connections, which administers the Centralized Waiting List, has been transferred into the City’s governance and operative structure.

ii) Creation of Housing Allowance Reserve Fund
The City has created a Housing Allowance Reserve fund, which establishes a mechanism to contribute funding to a made-in-Toronto permanent housing allowance program. Previously, all funding was through federal or provincial contributions. Housing allowances provide a fixed monthly amount to help recipients afford rent in the private market and possibly move to a better home.

iii) Investment in Affordable Housing – Housing Allowance

A central part of the Housing Access Revitalization is development of a new Choice Based Housing Access System. An RFP for an IT system replacement to support this transformation will be issued. An online housing portal is also under development, which will function as a coordinated online access point for social and affordable housing options and housing help resources. Additionally, a new choice based housing allowance program that will provide greater housing affordability to more than 500 households on the social housing waiting list has been launched.

ii) Eviction Prevention Framework
Work is underway to develop an eviction prevention strategy aimed at reducing the number of people becoming homeless due to eviction. A comprehensive review of eviction prevention programs and policies was completed, including client journey mapping and a housing worker survey, to support further consultation and development of a comprehensive eviction prevention strategy and pilot initiatives in 2016.

i) Queen’s Park Lobby Day
In March, the City, TCH and the Co-operative Housing Associations of Toronto and Canada organized a Close the Housing Gap lobby day at Queen’s Park. More than 100 people attended Question Period and met with MPPs, while some 34 MPPs, including the finance and housing ministers, attended an evening reception.

iii) Close the Housing Gap Summit
More than 50 people came together April 29 to discuss next steps for the campaign and what needed to be done to help build and maintain affordable, social and co-op housing. Their comments and suggestions will assist in shaping the campaign in the months ahead.

iv) Close the Housing Gap Campaign Results
The two-year Close the Housing Gap campaign, led by the Affordable Housing Office and Toronto Community Housing, was instrumental in putting affordable housing on the political agenda – federally, provincially and locally. The 2016 federal and provincial budgets included significant funding increases. Federal initiatives, such as a National Housing Strategy, and provincial ones, such as inclusionary zoning, were advocated for during the campaign.

2016 Actions

i) Affordable Housing Summit
The City is organizing an affordable housing summit in the fall that will bring together federal, provincial and municipal officials along with stakeholders in the private and non-profit sectors. The goal is to make sure Toronto is fully prepared to take full advantage of new funding and strategies from Ottawa and Queen’s Park.

ii) City Input on National Housing Strategy
The federal government announced in its 2016 budget that it would begin consultations on a new national housing strategy. The City will work with federal government on the design and implementation of that strategy.
iii) Provincial Social Housing Modernization Consultations

In Ontario’s Long Term Affordable Housing Strategy (LTAHS) Update, released in March, 2016, the province committed to significant legislative and regulatory changes required to modernize the social housing system in Ontario. The City is committed to working with the Province to implement those commitments and staff are participating in a number of Steering Committees and Working Groups on related topics.

iv) Inclusionary Zoning Consultations

In Ontario’s Long Term Affordable Housing Strategy (LTAHS) Update, released in March, 2016, the province committed to consult with municipalities, developers and other stakeholders before introducing inclusionary zoning legislation. This provides the opportunity for the City to provide input into the framework and identify implementation and transition matters that must be addressed if the legislation is to have any immediate impact. Council has requested that Toronto Housing Advocate Councillor Ana Bailão prepare the City’s submission.
CONCLUSION

With HOT at its mid-point, the City held public consultations in the fall of 2015 as part of a 5-Year update. The update will refresh HOT with adjustments to existing actions and, potentially, new actions to help guide the City through the plan’s remaining five years.

Along with public input, a number of other factors will influence the update. City initiatives include the new Open Door Program to accelerate affordable housing construction, the Poverty Reduction Strategy and a review of the City's real estate portfolio.

The 2016 federal and provincial budgets and housing initiatives such as a national housing strategy and inclusionary zoning legislation will also play a role in the revisions. Once the impact of these initiatives has been assessed and combined with public input, an updated version of HOT will be presented to City Council for consideration.

The City will report annually on progress under HOT and continue to advocate to the federal and provincial governments to increase their support in meeting the housing needs of Torontonians.

Housing Opportunities Toronto has reliably guided the City’s housing investments since 2010. Toronto continues to work to create affordable rental and ownership homes across the city, preserve and repair rental housing, revitalize neighbourhoods, solve homelessness, improve housing stability, address affordability needs and partner with federal and provincial governments and public and private stakeholders to create more housing opportunities for residents.
