I am providing feedback as requested with respect to TLAB forms, guides, rules and procedures.

In general the information the public requires I found to be easily accessible on your website.

The rules of procedure, compared to court rules of procedure, were relatively simple and straight forward, and not difficult to follow. The timelines for filing documents were adequate.

Accessibility: Being able to access all filings and relevant dates on line and quickly works wonderfully.

Hearings: Where there are a lot of participants, the hearing chambers may be a bit small, and it would help to have more space for parties to privately consult/ discuss issues.

Although your focus is not on this issue, based on what I have seen to date, I am not sure that TLAB is as different as it was intended to be from the OIMB. At the hearing I attended, the tilt seemed to be in favour of the developer, and I did not sense that concerns of residents was adequately address.
