Rights and Restrictions

Scrutineers and candidates can:

- Enter the designated place 15 minutes before it opens and inspect the vote tabulator stand, the ballots and all other election documents but not so as to delay the process
- Object to an elector voting in the voting place (objection to be decided by the election official)
- Sign the statement of the results of the election where applicable
- Place their seal on the ballot box after the close of voting each day during the advance vote and on election day in the voting place

Scrutineers and candidates cannot:

- Attempt, directly or indirectly, to interfere with how an elector votes or with an elector who is marking a ballot in the voting place
- Display a candidate's election material (including buttons, ribbons, pins, etc.) in the voting place
- Compromise the secrecy of voting
- Obtain or attempt to obtain, in the voting place, any information about how an elector intended to vote or has voted
- Communicate any information obtained in the voting place about how an elector intends to vote or has voted
- Speak to or provide assistance to any electors in the voting place
- Act as an interpreter (an elector must make their own arrangements)
- Use a cell phone in the designated place

Election officials have the right to remove from the designated place any individual who is causing a disturbance. Candidates and scrutineers forfeit their right to be present if they disrupt the designated place or interfere with the process.
