

What We Heard

Engagement Summary

June 2022

Executive Summary

The Official Plan is a city planning document that acts as Toronto's road map for land use matters. It sets out our long-term vision, shared values, and policies that help guide decision-making on land development, economic growth, the environment, and more. It is an important plan that directs where different types of development should and should not go.

The Municipal Comprehensive Review and Official Plan review processes, named Our Plan Toronto, has been shaped by the diverse voices that make up our city. Torontonians from across the city were invited to participate and lend their voice to the review, which will shape the city over the next 30 years.

What we heard during the process and the three phases of engagement has shaped the plan's draft vision, directions, and principles. This has resulted in revisions to the Official Plan that reflects the diversity of our city, and aims to eliminate disparities, take action against climate change, make Toronto the most inclusive city in the world, and take steps toward reconciliation with Indigenous communities.

Our Plan Toronto is part of the Municipal Comprehensive Review, a process to review and update the Official Plan that is required under the Planning Act of Ontario and Growth Plan for the Greater Golden Horseshoe Area. Provincial requirements related to notices, Indigenous engagement, statutory meetings, and statutory open houses were followed.

How We Engaged

Hearing from Diverse Voices

Community Leaders Circle

The Community Leaders Circle (CLC) was a fundamental component to reach marginalized communities and equity deserving groups. Spanning over 30 community organizations across the City, the CLC members were engaged through workshops and dialogue to provide insights focused on embedding equity both into the Our Plan Toronto process as well as into the Official Plan policies. The CLC was also mobilized for additional outreach and engagement in their respective communities, resulting in multiple additional focused consultations co-designed and/or led by CLC members. CLC participants were compensated for their time through an honorarium, to reduce financial barriers to participation.

Presentation to City Committees

- Planning and Housing Committee
- Economic and Community Development Committee
- Aboriginal Affairs Advisory Committee
- Confronting Anti-Black Racism Committee
- Film, Television, and Digital Media Advisory Board
- Toronto Accessibility Accountability Committee
- Seniors Strategy Accountability Table

Engagement by the Numbers

2,000 people reached in meetings and workshops

60+ stakeholder meetings and workshops

10,900 website and StoryMap visits

1,200 poll responses

10,900 of #OurPlanTO likes, tweets, and retweets from social media releases

What We Engaged On

Phase 1

- The biggest challenges facing Toronto as we grow
- Values for future growth
- Breaking down inequities

Phase 2

- What's working in communities
- Priorities for the Official Plan
- Focus on building back better, what does "better" look like"

Phase 3

Presented:

- Draft vision statements and principles for Chapter 1
- Draft and recommended environment and climate change, employment, and Major Transit Station Areas
- Gauged support for draft Official Plan vision, directions and principles, including obtaining any refinements

Indigenous Engagement

As part of the Our Plan Toronto process, the City consulted on and looked at how to address the many disparities that exist across our city in an effort to become a more equitable, welcoming, and healthy city for all. In addition applying an equity lens to the engagement process, Our Plan Toronto examined our history through reflection on Indigenous priorities in a manner that supports Indigenous self-determination. The City of Toronto saw Our Plan Toronto as a key opportunity to support Indigenous self-determination through Indigenous inclusion and reflection. To do this, the City of Toronto placed an important emphasis on amplifying Indigenous voices in this planning process.

The Provincial Policy Statement (PPS) 2020 recognizes the important role that Indigenous communities have in land use planning, and requires municipalities to consult with and build relationships with Indigenous communities through meaningful engagement. With this in mind, Our Plan Toronto used a relationship-based approach in the outreach and engagement with Indigenous rights holders, businesses and organizations, to form relationships with individuals and organizations to foster those relationships beyond the life of the Our Plan Toronto process.

Read the Indigenous engagement summary for more information.

Engagement by the numbers

24	12	52
meetings	one-on-one interviews	participants

How We Engaged

- Introductory letters
- Phone calls and emails
- E-bulletin with updates and notifications
- Meetings with Rights Holders
- Focus Groups
- One-on-one interviews with Indigenous organizations
- Aboriginal Affairs Advisory Committee (AAAC)
- Toronto Aboriginal Support Services Council (TASSC)
- Community Leaders Circle

What We Heard

The Key Themes

- Equity, inclusion, and relationship building
- Aligning priorities and conversations
- Community-led solutions
- Learning from the past and implementation

The most frequently raised issues included:

- Housing affordability
- Scale of intensification
- Environment and climate change
- Indigenous interests and reflection
- Supporting businesses and jobs
- Complete communities and universal design

Read the Phase 1, Phase 2, and Phase 3 engagement summaries for more information.

How We Used Your Feedback

Feedback gathered throughout the engagement process was used to draft the Official Plan Vision Statement that sets out what we want the City to look like in 2051.

The Official Plan will:

Seek to eliminate disparities experienced by Torontonians.

Prioritize climate change action and sustainability towards net zero by 2040.

Be the road map for Toronto to become the most inclusive city in the world.

The Official Plan

Principles for successful and inclusive city:

- Access: improving access to many facets of daily life;
- Equity: applying an equity lens that identifies and removes barriers for the City's most marginalized and vulnerable communities for achieving transformative change and inclusive growth; and
- Inclusion: creating a safe and inclusive city for all Torontonians and those yet to arrive.

Final Note

Thank you to those who participated in Our Plan Toronto, through public meetings, interviews, stakeholder meetings, community leaders circles, Indigenous organizations and rights holder meetings, survey and polling, emails, social media, the website and our digital resource storymaps. Your insights, perspectives, feedback and input have shaped the future of Toronto with the goals to be a more equitable and inclusive city.

Thank you for your time and stay in touch.