

Election Procedures Definitions

Certain terms and phrases used throughout the Toronto Elections procedure documents are defined in the Municipal Elections Act, 1996, the City of Toronto Act, and other relevant legislation. For those terms and phrases not so defined, the following definitions shall be used.

"acceptable identification" or "identification" means identification as prescribed by Ontario Regulation 304/13, made under the Municipal Elections Act, 1996, and the City Clerk's policies for Identification requirements for electors, Identification requirements for third party advertisers, and Identification requirements for candidates.

"advance vote" means the date(s) that the City Clerk has established as advance voting day(s) prior to election day.

"amendment application" means a paper or electronic form that is used to add, correct or remove an elector's name or information on the voters' list.

"assistive device" means a tool that enables individuals with disabilities to perform certain tasks and activities. In the case of the Voter Assist Terminal, an elector can use them to independently mark their ballot.

"auxiliary compartment" means the front compartment of the tabulator stand where electors' ballots are temporarily stored in the event that the tabulator fails to operate.

"ballot" means the prescribed form containing the names of the certified candidates and the office for which they are running.

"ballot box A" means the box(es) containing used ballots from the election. Each box is sealed and labelled to identify the associated voting place (ward and subdivision).

"ballot box B" means the box(es) containing unused ballots from the election.

"ballot box C" means the supply bag(s) containing all other materials and documents related to the election. Supply bags are sealed and labelled to identify the associated voting place (ward and subdivision).

"Ballot Determination Station" means a designated location onsite where the Clerk and/or election official will be situated to replicate the marks, if any, present in the designated voting space of a returned ballot. This location will be in clear view of any candidate or their representative(s).

"Ballot Distribution Station" means a designated location onsite where the ballot box containing all the used ballots and vote tabulator memory media will be stored.

“ballot face” means the image side of the ballot.

“ballot style” means the various ballot types, showing a combination of offices and answer to any by-law or question.

"Ballot Transfer Request" means a document that the City Clerk has issued to an elector approving their request to have their ballot transferred to another voting place within their ward to enable the elector to vote.

"blank ballot" means a ballot cast by an elector where the elector has not selected a candidate for any office.

"City Clerk" (also referred to as "Clerk") means the Clerk of the City of Toronto.
