Information and Instructions for Applications to Demolish or Convert Rental Housing

Application Purpose

The City of Toronto has a by-law regulating rental housing demolition and conversion – Municipal Code Chapter 667, Residential Rental Property Demolition and Conversion Control. It requires the owner of residential rental property ("rental housing") considering a demolition or conversion that is subject to the provisions of the by-law to obtain a permit from the City of Toronto. This permit is in addition to any other permits or approvals as required under the Building Code Act, 1992, the Planning Act, the City of Toronto Act, 2006, or any City of Toronto by-law.

A proposal is subject to the by-law if it involves six or more existing dwelling units, any of which are rental units, and the proposal is to:

- Demolish all or part of a building, including interior renovations/alterations if they would result in a change to the number or unit type of any of the existing rental units; or
- Convert from existing rental housing use to uses such as offices; changing self-contained rental dwelling units to something else such as a care home non-rental purposes, including changing to non-residential with central services or to individual rooms; changing the rental status of the housing to freehold ownership, condominium, co-ownership, or life lease forms of ownership; severing a rental property such that the number of rental units remaining on any severed or retained parcel is reduced to fewer than six.

A proposal does not require a permit under the by-law if it involves:

- Five or fewer existing dwelling units, or that involves six or more existing dwelling units but none are rental units;
- Properties that are condominium-registered or life-lease properties;
- Demolition activity on a rental property where the portion affected contains no residential units, including retail space or ancillary space such as underground parking, indoor amenity or property management facilities;
- Additions to a rental property that do not directly affect existing units; or
- Severing rental properties where each severed parcel contains six or more rental units or where a severed parcel contained no existing dwelling units.

For a more complete understanding of the by-law and when a permit is required, please consult Chapter 667 of the Toronto Municipal Code available on-line at www.toronto.ca/legdocs/municode/1184_667.pdf.

Pre-Application Consultation

If your proposal has met the criteria in the Declaration of Use and Screening Form for a Rental Housing Demolition and Conversion application, it is encouraged that you meet with City staff to discuss your proposal in order to get a clear understanding of application requirements.

How to Apply

Submit a completed "Rental Housing Demolition and Conversion Application" by mail or in person to the applicable district Customer Service Office as indicated on page 1 of the Application form and attach all submissions. If an approval is obtained, and if your proposal requires a permit under Section 8 or 10 of the Building Code Act, 1992, a separate application must be made to Toronto Building. If you have applied or intend to apply for a related planning application, submit both the planning application and Rental Housing Demolition and Conversion Application at the same time so that they are reviewed concurrently.

Submission Requirements

A Rental Housing Demolition and Conversion Application will not be considered complete unless the following items are provided, to the satisfaction of the Chief Planner:

1. A completed Rental Housing Demolition and Conversion Application, including the Declaration of Use and Screening Form.
2. Full payment of fees (Fees are based on the existing number of units directly affected by the demolition or conversion).
3. A Housing Issues Report, including:
 - a. Description of the proposal as it relates to the City's relevant Official Plan housing policies and Chapter 667 of the Toronto Municipal Code;
 - b. Data on the proposed housing units, including tenure status for all retained or proposed units, and the number and unit type of proposed converted or new units;
 - c. Description of any related applications as defined in Chapter 667 (for example, application for a rezoning, consent to sever, or demolition), phasing issues, and contextual considerations for the proposal;

2023 Rental Housing Demolition & Conversion

- d. Analysis and opinion of the proposal in light of the above noted descriptions, including the anticipated impact of the proposal on existing tenants and the supply of rental housing; and
- e. Completed Data Summary sheet (page 3) indicating the total number of existing rental units by rent category. If the proposal affects only a portion of the existing rental units, then a second data sheet should also be completed providing the same information but for only the affected rental units.

Note: If there is a related planning application and a Housing Issues Report is required to satisfy the planning application requirements, a single report may be submitted as long as all requirements for both applications are fulfilled.

4. Two copies of: a Survey, Draft Reference Plan, Context Plan, Concept Site and Landscape Plan, and Floor Plans.

Additional Requirements

1. If the proposal is for Demolition of Existing Rental Housing, also provide:
 - a. For the rental units proposed for demolition, the number of vacant units (dates vacated) and number of units used for purposes other than rental housing;
 - b. A list containing the suite numbers and mailing addresses of each rental unit;
 - c. A proposal for the replacement of the demolished rental units, with information comparing the proposed units and the existing rental units to be demolished; and

2. If the proposal is for Demolition of Existing Social Housing (as defined in the Toronto Official Plan), also provide:
 - a. The same information as required above for the demolition of existing housing, as modified below:
The summary of data on the units and rents for the existing housing should also indicate the number of rent-geared-to-income (RGI) subsidies by unit type, and market rents by unit type for the remainder of the existing units proposed for demolition.
3. If the proposal is for Conversion to Condominium, also provide:
 - a. For the rental units proposed for conversion, the number of vacant units (dates vacated) and number of units currently used for purposes other than rental housing;
 - b. A list containing the suite numbers and mailing addresses of each rental unit; and
 - c. Indication of the nature of any renovations, improvements, repairs, or changes to the building undertaken in conjunction with the condominium conversion.
4. If the proposal is for Conversion to a non-residential use or for non-rental purposes, other than to condominium, also provide:
 - a. For the rental units proposed for conversion, the number of vacant units (dates vacated) and number of units currently used for purposes other than rental housing;
 - b. A list containing the suite numbers and mailing addresses of each rental unit; and
 - c. If residential use is to be maintained and existing tenants are able to remain, indication of the nature of any renovations, improvements, repairs or changes to the building undertaken in conjunction with the conversion.
5. If the proposal is for a Consent under section 53 of the Planning Act:
 - a. A copy of the information submitted with the application for consent on the lots to be retained and rental units and any other existing dwelling units for each proposed parcel of land.

Note: Not all of the above requirements will apply to a proposal. The pre-application consultation meeting will determine which of these must be provided with the initial submission to consider the application complete. Additional information requirements may also be identified during the review process.
