A Note on Distribution of Companies in this Directory

The companies listed in this directory were sourced from Toronto's Economic Development & Culture's database, through a search of key words on the internet or supplied to us by research carried out by the City of Markham, the City of Richmond Hill and the Town of Halton Hills. No conclusion should be drawn on the distribution of companies in the green sectors in the GTA based on the listing in this directory. All municipalities in the GTA are encouraged to participate in building a comprehensive database of our green industries.

Prepared by

Sector Development Office, Economic Development and Culture, City of Toronto

Data was collected through research carried out by Town of Halton Hills, City of Markham, the City of Richmond Hill, and City of Toronto staff with the support of the Toronto Region Conservation Authority.

An electronic version of this directory can be downloaded at www.toronto.ca/green

Introduction

As cities, people, and the planet deal with the ever-intensifying consequences of climate change, we must focus on transitioning our economy to one that is clean, equitable, and sustainable. The City of Toronto's Sector Development Office provides economic support for several priority sectors in Toronto, including the Green Sector.

Over 60,000 people worked in the City of Toronto's green sectors in 2019 and employment in the sectors, prior to the pandemic, has been growing twice as fast as the overall employment in Toronto (3.9% vs. 1.6) and contributed an estimated $6.55 billion to the local GDP in 2018. The size of the green industries in the entire GTA is much larger than this.

Why the GTA?

The companies included in this directory are located generally within the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). This allows us to capture potential supply chain linkages between organizations locally and to include the travel patterns that Toronto residents might cover for employment and the purchasing of services and products. The geographic parameters of the GTA better capture these travel patterns and reflect a more cohesive group of green businesses operating in and serving the areas where Toronto residents live and interact. By supporting these local businesses, we keep jobs within the Toronto region.

We recognize that there might be companies that we have missed. Companies/organizations that are interested in being included in future updates of this directory can input their information here: <https://cotsurvey.chkmkt.com/green-directory>

If you are listed in the directory with incorrect information, then please contact us at greentech@toronto.ca with the correct information.

Defining the Green Industry

City of Toronto identifies three "green" levels in society: the Green Economy, the Green Industry or Green Sectors, and Green Tech. The Green Sectors are the economic sector which we report on here.

The Green Economy: Businesses and organizations in all parts of society that use environmental practices that are significantly better in reducing the impact of human activity on the environment than the current standard practices in society.

The Green Sectors or the Green Industry: Economic activities (processes, products or services) that reduces environmental impacts through:

1. Environmental protection and remediation activities;
2. The sustainable use of natural resources which includes the supply chain of goods and services of recycled materials and other processes that reduce the consumption of natural resources;
3. The supply chain of goods and services that have been specifically modified or adopted to be significantly less energy or resource intensive than the industry standard.

Green Tech: Pure play companies in the green sectors that have developed environmental solutions (either products or services) that use significantly less energy or resources than the industry standard and current practices in society. This would exclude environmental servicing firms such as public transit and water treatment plants.

A Note on CleanTech: The meaning of this has evolved over the years and now often means companies in all sectors of the economy which offer products or services that have less environmental impact than the norm for that product or service. So you can have cleantech in mining, fossil fuels, forestry, agriculture, etc. In many respects it is similar to how the Green Economy is being used.

The Five Green Sectors

We split the green industry into five sectors which we define below. Each sector also consists of numerous clusters of companies and organizations that work closely together with similar activities such as solar PV or the micromobility cluster.

Many green industry companies fall under more than one sector. Most companies are classified by the sector in which most of their activity is focused on. We also have an "Other" category for those that do not fall clearly under any one of the five sectors, or which cover all sectors, such as media and financing companies.

Bio Economy

Businesses and other organizations involved in the harvesting and preparation of biomass for use in non- industry standard types of products or service offerings. While the forest industry is a sustainable sector, the use of wood for purposes such as housing construction and furniture is part of society's norm and hence are not included here. Businesses involved in the production or sale of food and beverages and businesses engaged in the development and sale of pharmaceuticals or life sciences-related products are excluded.

Clean Energy

Businesses and other organizations engaged in the manufacturing, distribution and/or servicing of renewable energy, energy storage, smart grid, or energy efficiency technologies and services.

Green Buildings

Businesses and other organizations engaged in building practices with materials and processes that are environmentally responsible and use significantly less energy or resources at all stages of a building's life cycle (siting, design, construction, operation, maintenance, renovation, and demolition). Businesses that install clean energy components to buildings, and businesses that install green roofs are included.

Resource Management & Environmental Protection

Businesses and other organizations that focus on the sustainable use of natural resources, either through the management or development of natural resources, which ensures that the needs of the present are met through environmentally responsible economic growth that does not compromise the ability of future generation to meet their own needs. Also included are businesses that focus on activities that are intended to prevent, reduce, or eliminate pollution or other forms of environmental degradation. This includes waste and water treatment, land remediation, recycling, products that are made from recycled goods. For Toronto - recycled wood is considered part of the Bio-Economy sector.

Sustainable Transportation

Businesses and other organizations involved in the supply of products and services that move people and goods by modes that have low environmental impact, use less energy, lower emissions, or are less environmentally impactful than the standard for that mode. We break the sector into several modes of transportation such as micro-mobility, E-motorcycles, light electric vehicles, electric and other non-carbon fueled cars (EVs); and mass transportation (low emission buses and trains). We also include charging infrastructure, smart transportation technologies and transportation as a service (i.e., TTC, bike share) as important parts of this industry sector.

Other

This is a catch-all of organizations that primarily focused on providing support across several green sectors. This can include governments, academia, incubator services, NGOs. Those organizations that focus in a green sector are listed under that sector.

Supply or Cluster Chain Segments

Below is how the City of Toronto defines each supply chain segment of a sector's eco-system. Supply chain definitions attempt to describe the sequence of process involved in the production and distribution of products and services while a cluster chain extends this to organizations that support the supply chain processes.

Associations/NGOS

Trade and industry organizations, charities, non-profit organizations and non-governmental organizations that have an interest in environmental issues.

Government/Government Agency

Government departments and related organization such as public utilities.

Education

Providing education and training services to the green sector.

Research

Organizations that provide or support primary or applied research - either based on technology development or other social or policy applications. This includes think tanks, research organizations, and policy institutes.

Manufacturing

Companies that manufacture a product from raw materials or assemble a final product from a variety of manufactured components or sub-assemblies.

Wholesale

Companies that provide products in quantities to either retailers or an end user that has a demand for a large quantity of product.

Resource Extraction

Resource extraction refers to the withdrawing of materials from the environment for human use, this includes fossil fuels, mining, forestry, agriculture, and fisheries. Little of this activity is done in the City of Toronto.

Retail

Companies that sell to the end user. This can include firms that sell and install.

Service Provider

Providers of specific services such as consultants, installation and repair services, trades (such as carpenters, electricians, roofers), transportation services, power generation, financial and investment services, marketing and communication services, incubator and accelerator services, real estate developers, builders. This is a very broad category and is often broken down into specific sub-segments.

Professional Services

Professions which require a professional designation or certification such as accountants, engineers, lawyers who work primarily in the green sector listed.

Other

Includes product certification services, suppliers of raw or unprocessed materials.
