A Note on Distribution of Companies in this Directory

The companies listed in this directory were sourced from Toronto's Economic Development & Culture's database, through a search of key words on the internet or supplied to us by research carried out by the City of Markham, the City of Richmond Hill and the Town of Halton Hills. No conclusion should be drawn on the distribution of companies in the green sectors in the GTA based on the listing in this directory. All municipalities in the GTA are encouraged to participate in building a comprehensive database of our green industries.

Prepared by

Sector Development Office, Economic Development and Culture, City of Toronto

Data was collected through research carried out by Town of Halton Hills, City of Markham, the City of Richmond Hill, and City of Toronto staff with the support of the Toronto Region Conservation Authority.

An electronic version of this directory can be downloaded at www.toronto.ca/green

Introduction

As cities, people, and the planet deal with the ever-intensifying consequences of climate change, we must focus on transitioning our economy to one that is clean, equitable, and sustainable. The City of Toronto's Sector Development Office provides economic support for several priority sectors in Toronto, including the Green Sector.

Over 60,700 people worked in the City of Toronto's green sectors in 2021 and employment in the sectors, prior to the pandemic, has been growing twice as fast as the overall employment in Toronto (4.6% vs. -0.9%) and contributed an estimated $6.55 billion to the local GDP in 2018. The size of the green industries in the entire GTA is much larger than this.

Why the GTA?

The companies included in this directory are located generally within the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). This allows us to capture potential supply chain linkages between organizations locally and to include the travel patterns that Toronto residents might cover for employment and the purchasing of services and products. The geographic parameters of the GTA better capture these travel patterns and reflect a more cohesive group of green businesses operating in and serving the areas where Toronto residents live and interact. By supporting these local businesses, we keep jobs within the Toronto region.

We recognize that there might be companies that we have missed. Companies/organizations that are interested in being included in future updates of this directory can input their information HERE.

If you are listed in the directory with incorrect information, then please contact us at greentech@toronto.ca with the correct information.

Defining the Green Industry

City of Toronto identifies three "green" levels in society: the Green Economy, the Green Industry or Green Sectors, and GreenTech. The Green Sectors are the economic sector which we report on here.

The Green Economy: The term “green economy” refers to a society which operates inside the constraints of the earth’s ecosystem without degrading it for future generations. In 2011, the United Nations Environment Programme defined the green economy as “one that results in improved human well-being and social equity, while significantly reducing environmental risks and ecological scarcities. It is low carbon, resource efficient, and socially inclusive.”

The Green Sectors or the Green Industry: Companies and supporting organizations that provides goods and services that:

- Support the managing, maintaining or remediating damage to the environment caused by human activity or which reduces the extraction of new resources from the natural environment through the repurposing of previously extracted materials.
- Have a low impact on the environment or which significantly lowers the impact when compared to equivalent products that have a similar function in buildings, transportation, and the energy supply.

GreenTech: “Pure play” companies in the green sectors that have developed environmental solutions (either products or services) that use significantly less energy or resources than the industry standard and current practices in society. This would exclude environmental servicing firms such as public transit and water treatment plants or “standard” products that are inherently green (such as bicycles or arborists)

A Note on CleanTech: The meaning of cleantech has evolved over the years and now often means companies in all sectors of the economy which offer products or services that have less environmental impact than the norm for that product or service. You can have cleantech in mining, fossil fuels, forestry, agriculture, etc. However it also excludes many “green” products that are inherently green as services such as bicycles, public transportation, urban tree management (nurseries, arborists) and district energy systems.

The Five Green Sectors

We split the green industry into five sectors which we define below. Each sector also consists of numerous clusters of companies and organizations that work closely together with similar activities such as solar PV or the micromobility cluster.

Many green industry companies fall under more than one sector. Most companies are classified by the sector in which most of their activity is focused on.

Green Sector	Businesses and other organizations involved in the manufacturing, supply, installation and servicing of products and services that:	Examples
Bio-Economy	Grow, maintain, harvest, prepare and utilize biomass in non-industry standard types of products or service offerings. This excludes food, life sciences and conventional building and construction activities.	Arborists, tree nurseries; green chemistry, biofuels, urban wood sawmills
Clean Energy	Provide renewable energy, energy storage, smart grid, or energy efficiency technologies and services that are not integrated directly into buildings (covered below).	Solar, district energy systems, energy storage
Green Buildings	Follow building practices with materials and processes that are environmentally responsible and use significantly less energy or resources at all stages of a building's lifecycle (siting, design, construction, operation, maintenance, renovation, and demolition).	Heat pumps, energy efficient windows, smart building technologies, green roofs
Resource Management &	Sustainable use, either through management or development, of natural resources and activities that	Water treatment and waste treatment plants,

Environmental Protection	are intended to prevent, reduce, or eliminate pollution or other forms of environmental degradation	recycling, air pollution, soil remediation, carbon capture
Sustainable Transportation	Move people and goods by modes that have low environmental impact or are less environmentally impactful than the standard for that mode. Environmental impacts include using less energy, lower emissions or lower life cycle costs.	EVs, micromobility, rail transport, public transit
Other	Primarily provide support across several green sectors	Research/incubator centres like MaRS, agencies like TAF and the Ontario Environmental Industries Association, green capital and venture capital firms

Supply or Cluster Chain Segments

Below is how the City of Toronto defines each supply chain segment of a sector's eco-system. Supply chain definitions attempts to describe the sequence of process involved in the production and distribution of products and services while a cluster chain extends this to organizations that support the supply chain processes.

Associations/NGOS

Trade and industry organizations, charities, non-profit organizations and non-governmental organizations that have an interest in environmental issues.

Government/Government Agency

Government departments and related organization such as public utilities.

Education

Providing education and training services to the green sector.

Research

Organizations that provide or support primary or applied research - either based on technology development or other social or policy applications. This includes think tanks, research organizations, and policy institutes.

Manufacturing

Companies that manufacture a product from raw materials or assembles a final product from a variety of manufactured components or sub-assemblies.

Wholesale

Companies that provide products in quantities to either retailers or an end user that has a demand for a large quantity of product.

Resource Extraction

Resource extraction refers to the withdrawing of materials from the environment for human use, this includes fossil fuels, mining, forestry, agriculture, and fisheries. Little of this activity is done in the City of Toronto.

Retail

Companies that sell to the end user. This can include firms that sell and install.

Service Provider

Providers of specific services such as consultants, installation and repair services, trades (such as carpenters, electricians, roofers), transportation services, power generation, financial and investment services, marketing and communication services, incubator and accelerator services, real estate developers, builders. This is a very broad category and is often broken down into specific sub-segments.

Professional Services

Professions which require a professional designation or certification such as accountants, engineers, lawyers who work primarily in the green sector listed.

Other

Includes product certification services, suppliers of raw or unprocessed materials.
